Fight against violence

The University of Bordeaux fights firmly against all types of harassment, sexual or homophobic violence. It encourages freedom of speech on these issues and does everything possible to ensure that victims are heard and supported in their efforts. If you are a victim or if you witness behaviour that is punishable by law, don't hesitate to talk about it and ask for help. You can contact the sexual harassment, gender-based violence and homophobia watch unit. This unit provides a concrete and confidential response to situations referred to it, and acts to prevent and dissuade any abusive behaviour.
